Finding and using information

We offer classes, tutorials and online guides on the use of a variety of resources including the library's catalogue, electronic databases and the internet for identifying and locating information for coursework, and on referencing and citing.

Guides www.lib.monash.edu.au/subjects/

Online tutorials www.lib.monash.edu.au/tutorials/

Classes www.lib.monash.edu.au/classes/

Contact your contact librarian to discuss how any of these resources and classes can be integrated into the curriculum. www.lib.monash.edu.au/contact/faculty

Subject and database guides

These show how to get started using the library's resources in chosen subject areas.

Databases: www.lib.monash.edu.au/databases/

24/7 access, anywhere, anytime

Monash staff and students have 24/7 access to an extensive collection of electronic journals, databases and books. www.lib.monash.edu.au/

Reading lists

We create web pages for reading lists that provide students with easy, direct access to your teaching unit material. We ensure compliance with copyright laws, place special access conditions on popular items and arrange purchase of materials. www.lib.monash.edu/contacts/rrs.html

Requests to purchase material

We encourage you to suggest the purchase of additional material to support your teaching. Discuss with your contact librarian or fill in the form.

Borrowing books

Staff and students may borrow material from all Monash University's Victorian campuses and can pick up the material from their most convenient campus.

Registering for a CAVAL card at your branch library allows you to borrow from any other Victorian university or TAFE.

There is also a reciprocal scheme with many interstate universities. www.caul.edu.au/ula

Staff and postgraduates may request material not available at Monash University but which is held at other libraries through our Document Delivery Service. www.lib.monash.edu.au/services/loans/docdel.html

Assistance with resources and services

Get answers about using the library's collections, resources and services quickly – chat online, in real time with a librarian. The library also provides an information desk service, telephone and email assistance. Individual or small group consultations are available with contact librarians. www.lib.monash.edu.au/help/
